Report from the Secretary for the AGM 31 May 2016

This second year in office has been just as busy as the first. The Committee continues to hold regular meetings which continue through the summer months preparing for the new season. I regret to say that although minutes of the meetings are prepared on time there is still some delay in loading these on the website. I will be looking to address this over the summer months.

Last year I accepted the role of Communications Secretary so that I could continue writing the weekly newsletter. This continues on a weekly basis and we are nearing the 75th edition. Members find this is a good way of communicating across the Society. It's informative and sometimes amusing and brings together a wealth of information on forthcoming events both internal and external.

More use is now made of the Society Desk and the two notice boards. This provides the same information for those of you without an email address. The Society is encouraging members to engage more with social media and I will be looking to see how this can supplement the newsletter without duplicating the same information.

Please continue to send me comments and snippets of information for the newsletter.

You can email these to secretary@winphotosoc.co.uk
